

defining parent

conscious, informed, inspired parenting

Fun and Games

By William Martin

Excerpt from The Parent's Tao Te Ching

Before your children learn to win or lose, they play at games for fun.
But then they come to believe that they must win
at games,
at business,
and at war.
They even learn to win or lose at love.

But the Tao teaches that games are for fun, that business is for the common good,
that no one wins at war, and that love endures for all.